1. PENDAHULUAN

Language is a system that consists of the development, acquisition, maintenance and use of complex systems of communication, particularly the human ability to do so; and a language is any specific example of such a system. The scientific study of language is called linguistics. Pragmatics is another branch of linguistics that concerned with meaning. Levinson (1983) proposes that pragmatics is the study of the relations between language and context that are oriented in the structure of a language. There are five principles of pragmatics. They are deixis, presupposition, entailment, implicature and speech act. Pragmatics is a subfield of linguistics and semiotics that studies the ways in which context contributes to meaning. Pragmatics encompasses speech act theory, conversational implicature, talk in interaction and other approaches to language behavior in philosophy, sociology, linguistics and anthropology. Pragmatics deals with utterances, by which we will mean specific events, the intentional acts of speakers at times and places, typically involving language. Pragmatics is sometimes characterized as dealing with the effects of context. In general, speech acts are acts of communication. To communicate is to express a certain attitude, and the type of speech act being performed corresponds to the type of attitude being expressed. For example, a statement expresses a belief, a request expresses a desire, and an apology expresses a regret. As an act of communication, a speech act succeeds if the audience identifies, in accordance with the speaker's intention, the attitude being expressed.

According to Chaer (2010:50) speech acts are individual symptoms that are psychological in nature and sustainability is determined by the speaker's language ability in dealing with certain situations. In speech acts focus in the meaning or meaning of actions in his speech. Leech (1993:19-20) states that actually in speech acts consider five aspects of speech situations which include: speakers and speech partners, the context of speech, the purpose of speech, speech acts as an action / activity and speech as a product of verbal acts.

Expressive speech acts is expressions which based on 21 psychological state and relate to the expression of speaker's feeling upon the hearer. Expressive speech acts are one of the five basic categories of speech acts identified by Searle (1976). Expressives remain under researched, though select categories of expressive speech acts, especially offering thanks and compliments, have received more extensive attention. The expressive speech act consists of representatives, directives, commissives, expressives and declarations. Expressive speech acts are found in many texts those are found also in quotation.

A quotation is a sentence or phrase taken from a book, poem, or play, which is repeated by someone else. A quotation is the repetition of one expression as part of another one, particularly when the quoted expression is well-known or explicitly attributed by citation to its original source, and it is indicated by (punctuated with) quotation marks. A quotations are found many in social medias such as instagram. Instagram (also known as IG or insta) is a photo and video-sharing social networking service owned by Facebook, Inc. It was created by Kevin Systrom and Mike Krieger, and launched in October 2010 exclusively on iOS. A version for Android devices was released a year and half later, in April 2012, followed by a feature-limited website interface in November 2012, and apps for Windows 10 Mobile and Windows 10 in April 2016 and October 2016 respectively.

The application allows users to upload photos and videos to the service, which can be edited with various filters, and organized with tags and location information. Selebgram is a portmanteau of "selebritas", or celebrity and "instagram". It basically means someone who earned fame from their instagram page. Most famous example would be Awkarin, a teen "selebgram" who earned her fame through her sensational news. Karin Novilda, popularly known as Awkarin. Born in Jakarta, november 29 1997, age 24 is an Indonesian internet celebrity active in social media Instagram and Youtube. She is famous through Instagram. There, she likes to share his daily activities or endorse, so that from there she gets the money. Awkarin often posts a photo of herself with various quote that makes other people interested and follow her account. In this research, researcher find out about the expressive speech act on Instagram with their meaning

In this research, the theory from Norrick is used in analyzing the research. Norrick (1978: 279) specifies that expressive speech acts express psychological conditions, and thus not beliefs or intentions, which arise to given states of affairs. An early differentiation of expressive speech acts has been carried out by Norrick (1978). His definition of expressive speech acts is that of A state of affairs X perceived as factual and judged to have positive or negative value for some person, the patient, brought about by a person, the agent (who may be identical with the patient), and, just in case either the agent or patient role is not filled or both are filled by the same individual, an additional person, the observer (Norrick 1978: 283).

According to Norrick (1978:277-291) he compares nine different kinds of expressive illocutionary acts. These are :

1. Apologizing, where an agent-speaker expresses negative feelings towards a patient-addressee to appease them (Norrick 1987: 284).

For example: It is easier to apologize than ask for permission

2. Thanking, where the speaker expresses positive feelings to the addressee, who has done a service to the speaker (loc. cit.: 285).

For example: To everything that I've ever lost: thank you for setting me free

3. Congratulating, where the speaker has observed that the addressee has either benefitted from or carried out a positively valued event (loc. cit: 285–286)

For example: We wish you a happy new year

4. Deploring, or censoring, in which the addressee is criticised for an event which had a negative impact on the speaker or a third person (loc. cit.: 287–288).

For example: Some people talk about other people's failure's with so much pleasure that you would swear they are talking about their own successes.

5. Welcoming, where the speaker expresses positive feelings towards the arrival of the addressee. Norrick (1987:289) points to the conceptual similarity with thanking.

For example: A smile is the Universal welcome (Max eastmas)

6. Forgiving, which is found to have a similar conceptual set-up as deploring, except for the fact that the speaker does not resent the addressee's action (loc. cit.: 289–290).

For example: There is no love without forgiveness without love.

7. Boasting, where the speaker expresses positive feelings about his or her own actions towards and addressee.

For example: People who boast about their IQ are losers.

8. Condoling, which resembles congratulating, except that the experienced event is negatively valued (loc, cit.: 286-287)

For example: There are no goodbyes for us where ever you are, you will always be in my heart.

9. Lamenting, where the speaker expresses his or her own misfortune, either at their own or somebody else's doing, the speaker is also the main observer (loc.cit.: 288-289)

For example: I shall look at the world through tears. Perhaps I shall see things that dry-eyed I could not see.

Meaning is the general word denoting that which is intended to be or actually is expressed or indicated: the meaning of a word or glance. Sense may be used to denote a particular meaning (among others) of a word or phrase: The word is frequently used in this sense. Sense may also be used loosely to refer to intelligible meaning: There's no sense in what he says. Significance refers particularly to a meaning that is implied rather than expressed: the significance of her glance; or to a meaning the importance of which may not be easy to perceive immediately: The real significance of his words was not grasped at the time. Purport is mainly limited to the meaning of a formal document, speech, important conversation, etc., and refers to the gist of something fairly complicated: the purport of your letter to the editor.
